THE New York Herald admits the success of Garfield for President.

A RETIRED Boston merchant claims to have made 2,100 puns in the past six years; and yet the suffering humanity of the "Hub" allow him to live.

THERE is a larger demand for wool in the eastern markets and New Mexico and Colorado fine is quoted at 16 to 28; medium, 25 to 28; coarse 19 to 21.

DISPATCHES from Berlin state that the imperial army is alarmingly on the increase. Several prominent officers have lost their lives in the past few months.

SITTING BULL's forces are growing smaller every day. Two hundred Sioux with two chiefs surrendered last week at Fort Keogh. It's a bad epoch for the red men in general.

SURE enough! What are Hancock's views on the silver question? Has he ever had any? Was he ever informed that Colorado and New Mexico are great mineral producing regions?

THE Washington Star admits the following: "Garfield holds to-day the honored position of being the only poor man among the political leaders." He serves his country without making a fortune out of the service.

THE boy who ticks a dime novel and his father's pocket-book under his arm and starts toward the setting sun to exterminate the Indians may never live to be President, but he does a great deal towards amusing the red man and enable him to pass his time in his own peculiar fashion. - Boston Globe.

THE prospects of the democracy are shown in the following: "You may depend upon it, sir, that 'Yank' or no 'Yank,' if elected, the old boys of the South will see that Hancock does the fair thing by them. In other words he will run the machine to suit them, or they will run the thing themselves. They are not going to be played with any longer." - Extract from a letter by Robert Toombs.

OLE BULL, the celebrated violinist was a very strong man physically. While travelling in America years ago, on the Mississippi river, two fellows persisted in bullying him for the fun of the thing. For some time he bore this patiently, but as his request to be left alone was not listened to, he seized upon the pair by the necks, and after holding them over the water and knocking their heads together, placed them on the desk, after this display of strength he was subjected to no more annoyance.

THE Topeka Commonwealth of last Sunday publishes a two column letter from a correspondent in the White Oaks. Speaking of the territory in general he says: "American capital, genius and enterprise, just awakened to a sense of the mineral wealth of New Mexico, is fast creating beautiful villas, cities and homes, while hundreds are on their way, and thousands are coming to reap the gold and silver harvest of this God-favored land of the Montezumas. I say to all, come! A world of development is open to the hardy miner and laborer, while capital is doubly assured of rich rewards."

THE following extract from the letter of Dr. Stringfield in which he accepts the nomination of the boys to the office of governor of Kansas, quite overcomes us. The miserable old scamp has done nothing but hunt office for the last decade; he had the insane idea that he could get the nomination for congress this year, and made a practice of sending his little girl up to the newspaper office in Topeka to beg country exchanges "for her ma" when in reality the "side pill-compounder" wanted them to see his name in print occasionally, or rather, semi-ditto. He was born with a tremendous bump of self-esteem, little intelligence, ordinary cart-horse sense and no power to discriminate between the real and unreal. The following is the extract from the damphool's letter: "And I been left to my own desires, it would have been that the shades of private life would have been more congenial, but a citizen who knows his relation to the body politic, has no right to permit his private welfare to stand in the way of public good."
